

September 7th—School's Open!

With 16 new students and a new 4th grade class, the Newark Boys Chorus School opened its doors for its 48th consecutive year educating the middle school-aged students of Newark.

“It’s a great group of young people, excited about the new school year and enthusiastic about starting at NBCS,” stated Brenda McLeod, Admissions Director and Administrator at the school. “Even after spending two days at the school last spring, several students stopped by last week to see their classrooms and to say, ‘hello’” continued McLeod.

Student enrollment continues to grow at the school and should reach 84 students in 2 years. It will be an unusual start of the school year. Not only will all of the upper classes go to Frost Valley Camp this week, they will also travel to Shanksville, Pennsylvania to participate in the Fifteenth Anniversary of the 9/11 Memorial Services on Sunday morning. (see related article.) While the upper grades will be traveling the 4th and 5th graders will participate in the annual new student, Boot Camp at the school. On Friday the camp will conclude with a special field trip to the Newark Museum.

“I can’t wait!” was the only comment new fourth grader, Michael Mason could muster. His mother, Keisha Archibald, thought that Michael was very excited about attending his new school.

Best of luck to everyone at the Newark Boys Chorus School this year.
