

NBCS Concert Chorus to share

the music spotlight with the renowned Musica Sacra in a special concert on October 25th at The Cathedral of Saint John the Divine in New York City.

When the Musica Sacra Board of Directors learned about our school and its chorus they asked if their choral director could visit. His goal was to learn about our school and to listen as our Concert Chorus rehearsed. The day after the visit our choral director, Donald Morris, received a call with an offer for our chorus to join Musica Sacra in the fall. Mr. Morris felt honored to be asked, as this is a very special group. Here's what their website has to say about the group:

"The story of MUSICA SACRA, the longest continuously performing professional chorus in New York City, is the story of a dazzling past, a thriving present, and a vibrant future. It's a tale of four decades of brilliance, every performance filled with new discoveries; profound statements made simply and elegantly. Whether a performance of the great choral masters of the past or the contemporary repertoire of today, MUSICA SACRA stands alone in its ability to positively change one's perception of choral singing forever."

The chorus has already started to rehearse for this important engagement. "It will be a big challenge for us to share the musical stage with this extraordinary group but our boys will be ready!" cited Morris. "It's an honor to be included."

Ticket availability, music schedule and transportation details will appear on the website as the date approaches. In the meantime, please mark your calendars.
